

Excerpt from Dandy Gangs, 2011 at the Art Gallery of Mississauga by Derek Liddington

Dear Friends,

Daniel Faria Gallery is pleased to participate in this year's Art Toronto (Booth 1004) from 28-31 of October at the Toronto Convention Center. On view at the booth will be a selection of work by the gallery's artists, including photographic works by Chris Curreri -who will have his first solo show with Daniel Faria Gallery on 17 November; four new paintings by Kristine Moran - who is one of two Canadian painters to be featured in Phaidon's Vitamin P2 book; new paintings by Douglas Coupland - whose work is currently on show at Art Labor Gallery in Shanghai as part of the exhibition, By Sea, Land & Air, We Prosper: New Art from Vancouver, Canada.

The booth will also feature photograms by Shannon Bool - a Canadian artist based in Berlin who will have her first solo show in Canada with the gallery in Spring 2012; a selection of sculptural works from the Proposal for a Mountain series by Jennifer Rose Sciarrino that were exhibited at the Power Plant earlier this year.

As part of the fair's opening night events, we are delighted to announce that gallery artist Derek Liddington will stage a new performance, A group of cubes arranged during a brawl, sparked by a disagreement over the aesthetic, social and compositional principles of Sol LeWitt, 2011. The new work presents two gangs of dancers, The Warhols and The Stallones, armed with 2' x 2' white cubes. Throughout the evening the dancers will repeatedly erect and dismantle a replica of an early Sol-LeWitt cube sculpture through a choreographed brawl-inspired-dance. There will also be new drawings from Liddington's Repeated Forms series available at the booth.

We look forward to seeing you at both the gallery and the fair. Please feel free to contact us with any questions.
